

Oldertales

Missive from your Baron and Baroness

Greetings Oldenfeld!

The event season is upon us! There is a Trimarian or Meridian event almost every weekend until Gulf Wars (which will be here before we know it!). We plan to attend a number of events and encourage Oldenfelders to travel as well, as time and budgets allow, of course. Many of us frequently travel with so much stuff that car-pooling is difficult, but it still doesn't hurt to ask in meetings or the populace group. Traveling is a great way to see how other groups run events, take different classes, bring back ideas for interesting tourneys or other activities, and meet new people.

There are also some fun events on the horizon here at home as well. Harvest is just around the corner in October. We are very much looking forward to seeing how the new Camp for All Seasons site works for us.

Having had the opportunity to tour the site, we are excited about the possibilities there. The main hall is lovely and very large (and climate controlled! -- a bit of modern technology that we all so enjoy in our not-very-European climate here). The site layout will allow for fighting and classes to take place very close to the hall. Archery is still a little bit of a walk, but the site has a dedicated range with a dirt berm that will hopefully at least reduce the hunts for missed shots between rounds and the number of arrows we lose in the leaf litter. We do not yet have the site secured for Yule, so we ask everyone to please obey all site rules and take an extra moment to make sure we pick up garbage, clean floors, etc., and show the site management what amazing clients we are!

The busy season also means that many of us are working on A&S ideas, improving our kits, or starting Gulf Wars encampment projects. We had a few weeks off for various reasons, but we just wanted to remind everyone that we are still holding Tuesday project nights at our home. Some things we will be working on are largesse (for gift baskets), banners, and once the weather gets a bit nicer, woodworking projects. All are welcome! We also have a variety of tools available for use, so if you need something, just ask.

Again, we look forward to this busy event-filled fall and winter, and we hope to see lots of you at lots of things!

Take care of yourselves and each other!
Aurelia and Charles

Missive From Your Seneschal

Seneschal's Message

Greetings to all! As August winds down, we look for some cooler weather to grace our lands! The summer is passed, schools have started and our season for different events starts to pick up! There are many things planned in the Land of Big Fun! The next big event for Trimaris will be Fall Coronation, to be held at Camp La Llanada on September 1-4. We have heard rumor that our majesties, King Danial and Queen Ennelynne, may be in peril at this event. In the event of some misdeed, we have faith in our Prince Franco and Princess Isabella to defend our fair Kingdom. Also at Coronation, one of our own, Gryphon de Quentin, will be elevated to knighthood. Like most Kingdom events, there is something for everyone between classes, fighting, feasting, dancing and meetings. After Coronation, the Barony of Oldenfeld will hold our own event, Panhandle Skirmishes on September 15-17. It will be held at Compass Lakes in the Hills in Alford, FL. Even if you cannot attend for the weekend, it is an easy drive for a day trip. Consider carpooling with a friend or two to make the trip more enjoyable! The Event Steward, Baroness Marie le Main, has been working diligently all summer to ensure a great event. Then on October 6-8, 2017, we will hold our Harvest Celebration: Poland 1226 at Camp for All Seasons in Tallahassee. The event steward is Baron Simon Maurus and he has planned activities to satisfy everyone's tastes! We will continue to have our regularly scheduled business meetings on the first and third Thursday of every month (check FB for cancellations or e-mail the Seneschal from the website, www.Oldenfeld.org with questions or agenda items) at 7:00 p.m. at the Lake Ella Publix's on the 2nd floor. And remember, you can continue to work on projects and get assistance at the Baronial project night, graciously hosted by Baron Charles and Baroness Aurelia's home on Tuesday nights. Thank you all for your continued support to make this Barony so great!

Yours in Service,
Artemisia Pennelli

THE BARONY OF OLDENFELD PROUDLY PRESENTS HARVEST CELEBRATION: POLAND 1226

October 6-8, 2017

Camp for All Seasons

1600 Julow Lane, Tallahassee, FL 32310

The year is 1226. C.E., and Poland has been torn apart by dynastic infighting, and political power struggles abound. Konrad I of Masovia has called for the Teutonic Knights to wage great and terrible war against the Prussians. Will you and your brethren answer his call to arms?

Back at home in the Polish countryside, villagers are taking stock of the fruits of their labors. It is time for the renowned Harvest Festival! There will be:

- fabulous feasting upon Polish traditional favorites
- tournaments for both rattan fighters and fencers
- classes in many of the medieval arts and sciences
- archery and thrown weapons challenges
- engaging activities for children

Come join The Barony of Oldenfeld in a joyous celebration of the Harvest Season!
